Decade Sees Changes For Cameron, Milam

Another decade will slide into history Thursday, variously marked by war and prosperity, poverty relief programs and riots, but most strikingly marred by assassinations of a president, senator and Nobel prize-winning civil rights leader.

In Cameron the decade opened with a million dollar building program that included starts on 16 new homes, a new church, a new hospital, new bowling lanes and six commercial buildings. Major construction projects were the First Baptist Church, permitted at $135,000, Newton Memorial Hospital, a $295,000 bulding, and the enlarged Cameron Bowling Lanes.

1961 saw more building with planning started for a new city Library, opening of the enlarged and remodeled Citizens National Bank building and $307,170 allocated for Milam County highway improvements. Milam agriculture took on new interest with land purchases for Elm Creek Dairy.

Parades drew large crowds that year with thousands viewing the Western Week parade and an estimated crowd of 8,000 for the Christmas parade.

A fire in '61 destroyed the Milam Theatre and a Cameron School Board vote to ban seventh and eighth grade football caused a furor heard around the state.

Milam's National Guardsmen were called to active duty in 1961 for a tour that would last 10 months at Ft. Polk, La.

Politics were major events in 1962, with the first Republican Party primary in remembered county history. Both Republican candidate for governor, Jack Cox, and Democratic candidate, John Connally, appeared in Cameron. Weather also was in the news with a 14 degree low in January and accompanying ice storms that closed schools, and a contrasting 111 degree high in August.

City parking meters were voted out in a 1962 election and the city noted improvements with the opening of Newton Memorial Hospital, the opening of Elm Creek Dairy, opening of Cameron's first nursing home, and a long-range improvement program for Cameron Country Club.

Two Milam men were recognized that year, Rev. W. R. Parmer of San Gabriel as Texas Rural Minister of the Year, and J. D. Moore of Cameron with a National County Agents award.

Changes were evident in 1963 and 1964 as Uran Renewal proposals won city interest and an industry quest brought the formation of a Cameron Industrial Foundation. Construction continued with the opening of Matula Super Market, announced plans for a convent at St. Edward Hospital and completion of 33 new homes.

Controversy followed a school tax re-evaluation program in Cameron and a study that recommended a 42.8 tax increase.

And Cameron was "zip coded" 76520.

1965 saw the development of five rural water systems in Milam County and the up-grading of Cameron and Milam school equipment with the first Title I aid.

Cameron held two community clinics in 1965, the second a major evaluation that set direction for industrial and community development for years to come. A 50-unit public housing proposal was announced, state aid for a city airport granted, and library construction begun.

'65 was also the year voters turned down a proposal for court house and jail improvements; Mc. Lane Co. a wholesale grocery firm in Cameron for 62 years announced it would move to Temple; and a spring hail storm left a swath of destruction estimated at $250,000 in damages.

During 1966 Cameron continued a strong move toward downtown improvement with a 3-1 vote favoring drawing up an urban renewal program for a new nine block downtown area.

Industrial financing began for the first time in Cameron's history with the raising of some $63,000 plus for the Cameron Industrial Foundation.

In the county, full production and increasing employment at Alcoa kept things humming in South Milam while a cotton referendum favored almost 3 to 1 a program of promotion for the ailing industry.

And Milam County measured a 4½ inch snow.

Oil, industry, schools, drought and its breaking, new housing - these were all major topics of 1967.

Oil activity included an 84 barrel find, a 58 barrel find, six wild cats, two deep tests and leasing by H. L. Hunt interests in South Milam.

The city announced plans for 100 blocks of paving and 16.0 area women signed in during a one day Cameron labor survey. Voters approved a one cent city sales tax.

Schools were in the news. St. Anthony School added three classrooms and a teachers lounge, Yoe High received a long needed 'face-lifting' and the Frances Cox Band Hall was dedicated. Cafeteria needs were examined after 70 at Ada Henderson School were stricken with food poisoning.

And attention focused on culture as Cameron saw the founding of a Milam Historical Society, Cameron Literacy Council, and the first annual Fine Arts exhibit.

Industry, construction and proposed construction continued to hold interest in Cameron in 1968.

Magna Craft Inc. opened facilities to manufacture furniture with 18 on the payroll and Cam-Tex opened temporary facilities to manufacture children's and women's dresses in a building at the Cameron Airpark. Royal Seating Corp. employs 50 in new school chair plant in Cameron Industrial Park, talks of early expansion.

Remodeling plans and the addition of an elevator were announced for the Milam Courthouse. St. Edward Hospital received a $50,000 Hill Burton grant and opened a $2,000,000 fund drive to build a new hospital, and Ossneer Smith announced plans to give his home to the Cameron Independent School District.

The Urban Renewal Board hired a director and contracted with an engineering firm. A $1,.00 grant was approved for city engineering.

And Direct Distance Dialing came to Cameron.

The year of the heat wave(two weeks of 100 degree plus temperatures) was also the year of building and expanding, much in completion of work and planning started when the decade opened.

First National Bank remodeled and expanded, Royal Seating Corp. expanded plant facilities and added employees, Hensley - Russell completed a new building in Cameron Industrial Park with moving day set January 1, Abiding Saviour Lutheran Church dedicated its new sanctuary, City limits moved north and Anderle Lumber marked sites for a 24 home subdivision.

The Cameron Herald moved to twice weekly publication with plans for off-set printing in January.

Oil activity continued in South Milam with four wildcats drilling.

A zoning ordinance was passed by the Cameron City Council, a pension plan adopted by County Commissioners and State Highway Dept. announced a $2 million budget for Milam road improvement.

Cameron schools ended a period of study and planning with the announcement of a four school, integrated program that converted the former O. J. Thomas School to Cameron Junior High.

BABSON REPORT

The business and financial forecast for the opening year of the 1970's will be featured in The Herald on Thursday. The annual comprehensive report reviews the nation's past year and looks to the one ahead.

KUBIAK FILES

Rep. Dan Kubiak has filed for re-election as State Representative for District 27, Milam, Falls, and Robertson Counties, according to an announcement from his office on Tuesday.

★ Cherokee Navarro Gains Wildcat

Milam County's new Cherokee Navaroo field gained another wildcat several days ago which will be drilled by Victor P. Head, a Houston independent operator.

Head's wildcat will be his No. 1 Marjorie Jordan. Location is on a 161 acre lease in B. F. Swoap Survey about four miles southeast of Milano. It will be an attempt to extend the Cherokee Field to the northeast. Permit depth is 3,750 feet.

Drillsite for the new wildcat is only 167 feet from the Clark Oil Refining Company No. 1 - A T. Jordan which was abandoned as a dry hole after being drilled to 2,200 feet last spring. Reportedly the Marjorie Jordan was preparing to spud just before Christmas Day.

About three - quarters of a mile southwest of the Cherokee Navarro field David M. Thomas, Jr., reportedly had drilled his No. 1 Coleman and Wallace Beard, scheduled ten days ago, and was running tests on it.

Thomas, a Farmington, New Mexico operator, also was believed to be drilling his No. 1 J. Robert Bailey located about a quarter mile southwest of the Beard.

No information had been released, however, about these two wildcats.

ANONYMOUS GIFT—Rev. Bill Tomlin watches as workmen put finishing touches on new pews for All Saints Episcopal Church this week in time for a special Christmas Eve prayer service. The solid oak pews replace the original seating, pews handmade in Cameron about 70 years ago.

NOW—NOW—NOW

Ours was typical Christmas, I guess. Martin got a cannon that shoots light plastic cannon balls across rooms; Les received a portable tape recorder which now reproduces sounds of the cat purring, meowing, among others.

A big Christmas eve dinner and even bigger anticipation. Kids came out of bed at 3, 6, and 6:30 like clockwork. By 8 a.m. the place was a traditional shambles.

NOW — NOW — NOW

Because of the whimsical nature of executive decisions in Washington, we'll wish you a Happy New Year now, even though the Thursday issue next week is dated Jan. 1, 1970. Mail service last Friday was partially delayed by President Nixon's Tuesday decision to give postal employees an extra day.

Happy New Year! and somebody, I have something to say about that.

CHRISTMAS FIRECALL

Cameron Volunteer Firemen answered a call on Christmas Day to Polk Street, where an electrical short produced smoke but no damage.

DRESS PLANT WILL MOVE TO NEW BUILDING

Hensley-Russell, Inc., will move into its new plant at Cameron Industrial Park during the New Year weekend, according to Charles Wickersham, manager of the dress manufacturing facility.

Employees will work Monday through Wednesday and moving of equipment will start on New Years Day, Wickersham said, with work resuming on January 5 at the new plant.

Hensley-Russell Inc. has been operating at Cameron Airpark for over a year. The new 15,000 square foot plant will allow for increased employment at the local industry.

New Look For 1970 Auto Tags

Texas license plates will have a new color scheme for 1970 — light blue on a reflective white background, and a new, easier way to register vehicles is announced by Texas Highway Department.

For the first time, motor vehicle registration renewal applications will be mailed to every vehicle owner in Texas during January. The registration period begins February 1.

Date for mailing applications was first announced as the last week in December, but Highway Department officials decided not to add to the load of Christmas mail.

The renewal application will arrive in the mail in a slender envelope marked, "Important — This is Your License Plate Renewal Application."

The application itself has instructions printed on it. It is a three-part form which should not be torn apart.

When the registration period begins, the vehicle owner need only take the application — and the fee — to the county tax office. Or he can order his plates by mail.

With the application, he will no longer need to present his certificate of title or the last year's registration receipt.

If he decides to go to the county tax office or a substation, he will find shorter waiting lines. With the application, the clerk will need only to receive the fee, affix to the registration number and other the application a sticker showing data and hand over the 1970 plates.

Some vehicle owners may find it even more convenient to go through the registration process by mail.

Although owners can register their vehicles in person until April 1, there is a March 1 cutoff date for mail registration. This allows 30 days for delivery before 1970 plates must be displayed on vehicles.

If the vehicle owner wants his plates mailed to him, he should send his registration application to his county tax collector, with the registration fee plus $1, which is the statutory charge for handling and postage.

If the address on the renewal application is incorrect, the vehicle owner should print his correct residence address on all three parts of the application.

Only One Month Left To Register For 1970 Voting

Milam Countians still have a month to register for voting in the 1970 elections. Deadline for registration is January 31.

Voters will elect candidates from justice of the peace on the local level, up to governor in the November 3 general election.

Also to be voted on in November are constitutional amendments including liquor-by-the-drink.

The national election last year drew 9,677 registrations in Milam County.

Voters must fill in two forms, an application for registration and a registration form. Election lists are made up by precincts and it helps tax office workers if registrants know their precinct and put it on the form.

Applications may be requested by mail from the county tax office at Milam County Courthouse. A mother, father, sone or daughter can sign a registration form for a voter unable to come to the office in person.

Traditional Day For Thai Visitors

It was a traditional Christmas day at the John Hendersons, Sr., with trees, packages, Christmas stockings, grandchildren, turkey dinner. In fact it was a day much like Christmas 1968, with one exception. This year there were two house guests who are spending their first Christmas in America.

Miss Prapasi Nubthuenetre and Miss Nattari Tantiwechakul, whose names seem longer than they are tall, are special guests from Bangkok, Thailand. Both are graduate students at Colorado State College majoring in elementary education. They were teachers in their native Thailand and will return there after completing work for a masters degree.

For Miss Nubthuenetre, this Christmas vacation was the first meeting with the Hendersons. Nattari is renewing a friendship that started last summer, about 8,000 miles from Cameron, when Mr. and Mrs. Henderson were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Parker Hallberg, wife of a USIA officer in Bangkok. Nattari was also visiting in the Hallberg home, improving her knowledge of English before enrolling at Colorado State. The Carlsmas holiday in Cameron was planned at that time.

The months of study in the U.S. have been spaced by Colorado stops, a new adventure for both Prapasi and Nattari, and now a warm visit in Texas.

After the holidays, Nattari will continue her studies at Colorado and Prapasi will transfer to the continue he studies at Colorado University of Hawaii. Next year they will meet again at the Demonstration School of Chukalongkorn University, Bangkok, when both rejoin the faculty.

THAILAND VISITORS — for a traditional Christmas in America are Miss Nattari Tantiwechakul and Miss Prapasi Nubthuenetre of Bankok, Thailand, with holiday hosts, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Henderson, Sr. (see related story)

Police Report Quiet Holiday

Cameron Police Department reported a quiet Christmas with only a few arrests for "too much of the old cheer" (drunks) during the holiday.

Police Chief John Shearin said Alexander Reaves, the motorcyclist who collided with a truck in town Tuesday, is still in serious condition in a Temple hospital, according to hospital reports.

Reaves, 25, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is charged in County Court with possession of narcotics and carrying a pistol. A package of heroin was found in his jacket by attendants at a local hospital where he was taken following the accident.

Milam County Sheriff's Department also reported a quiet holiday.

Last Rites For Mrs. Will Ondrej

Mrs. Will Ondrej, 78, died at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in a local hospital.

Mrs. Ondrej was born March 1, 1891 in Falls County.

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. Friday at Marek - Burns Funeral chapel, the Rev. John Baleska officiating. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Will Onrej of Cameron; three sons, Alfred Ondrej of Cameron, Edwin Ondrej of Waco and Joe Ondrej of Hearne; two stepdaughters, Mrs. George Slhuh and Mrs. Vienna Bryan, both of Austin; two brothers, John Batla and Frank Batla, both of Cameron; and four sisters, Mrs. Frances Chupik and Mrs. Lydia Shelton, both of San Antonio, Mrs. Bennie Salach of Beaumont and Miss Gertrude Batla of Cameron.

A Closer Walk With God Will Lead You Right Straight to Church

ACROSS THE Centuries
When one carefully examines Psalms 37 they find it speaks for the whole Book . . . "I have been young and now I am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken." Psalms one begins with a quiet confidence, "Blessed is the man who walketh in the council of the ungodly."
Moses is reassuring his people when he calls upon mankind to praise God in Psalms 150. But David gave humanity its greatest comfort when he wrote the 23 Psalm. "The Lord Is My Shepherd." However, today's world is more complicated. Men have prostituted world affairs and manipulated things so that it is impossible to say it so simply.
In our legal order, men are forced to obey the laws which govern the world. But in a moral sense we have to obey God's law, for it is God's world. Since the Hebrew and the Christian have always believed the future is wholly in God's hand, we grey heads can sleep more comfortably if we have been good stewards in life.
Anyway, how about your church attendance? Be a regular church-goer and a true supporter. For God has and will always have total control

Drugs Part Of Milam Scene?

Seems Cameron has by chance encountered its first known heroin found following an accident on city streets.

Charged with possession of uncut heroin is a man giving an address in Brooklyn, N. Y. He is also charged with carrying a .25 cal. pistol, according to Chief John Shearin.

Interesting aspect of the incident is that Alexander Reaves, 25, a motorcyclist, told police he had been in Cameron three weeks. He is being treated in a Temple hospital.

It is premature to comment on the heroin possessed by the man, as charged in Milam County Court. But it is interesting to conjecture whether this is the first time someone found with the stuff in his possession has been in town that long.

Another case involving drugs earlier in the year, showed three youngsters from Austin charged with growing marajuana on a roadside near Thorndale. The trial is pending.

It is significant that drugs are a part of the Cameron scene, as remote as the possibility once appeared, and an unhappy thing to contemplate.

What Others Say . . .
Steel And Power And Wealth . . .

Coal, iron and steel have been the way to wealth and power for nations in the 19th and 20th centuries. First Britain, then Germany, then the United States, then Russia and Japan went that route. For a while it was the style for every little underdeveloped country to want its own steel mill as a status symbol, but this was impractical.

Theoretically oil should have joined coal, iron and steel as bringer of wealth and power in the 20th century, and to some extent it has—but mostly in the United States, already a coal, iron and steel power. Little countries with nothing but oil have had to sell to the big industrial countries. In spite of prying better terms out of them as time goes on and making some efforts to use the money constructively, the results have been disappointing. Little new oil countries are still not in the league with the iron and steel countries.

Japan is the biggest exporter of steel, and one of the biggest producers. Its steel industry, destroyed in World War II, is now one of the most modern. Japan claims that eight of the biggest blast furnaces in the world are in Japan, and the other two in the Soviet Union. Not till this year did the United States begin making as much as half its steel by the oxygen process instead of the older open hearth process. .

The American steel industry has been very restive at Japanese competition and this year got Japan to accept voluntary quotas on expansion of its sales here—but this competition is a valuable spur to modernization here, and a break for American steel consumers.

Steel is still king, but the steel game is a king-of-the-mountain proposition. You have to keep climbing and pushing to stay on top.—Des Moines Register.

ecord Enrollment
Veteran Training
nder New GI Bill

he Veterans Admimstration anced today a record number veterans and servicemen are w in training programs under newest GI Bill.

n even larger enrollment is pected next month when many ools begin their second semestdministrator of Veterans Afrs Donald E. Johnson said as November 30, there were more n 736,000 participants in train- programs of all types. This ludes trainees in programs at the college level, below college level, and on-the-job training.

According to Johnson, November's enrollment figure represents an increase of 36 percent over the same period last year when enrollees totaled 542,000.

So far, 1,551,000 trainees have taken advantage of educational benefits provided under the latest GI Bill since it went into effect June 1, 1966.

A breakdown of trainees by categories includes 65,000 pursuing on-the-job training, 239,000 in programs below college level, and 432,000 in programs at the college level.

The VA chief added that the increased participation in training programs can be attributed in part to the agency's continuing "Total Outreach" program.

Under this program, veterans and servicemen are informed about benefits available to them, and are encouraged to apply.

VA contact representatives provide this service at military installations in Victnam and the United States, as well as at VA hospitals, VA offices and Veterans Administration Centers throughout the United States. In addition to these personal contacts, VA letters are sent to all recently discharged veterans.

About New System . . .

Draft Questions, Answers

Editor's note: Questions about the new Random Selection Draft System are answered below by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director.

Q—Doesn't the registrant who is in college most of the year have an advantage over the one who can't go to college and is in I-A throughout the year?

A—No. The key in both cases is whether his random sequence number is reached in his local board. If the random sequence number has been reached in the case of a registrant who becomes I-A late in the year, he will be inations and so forth, are concluded, even though the year has ended. There is no way he can gain an advantage by delaying his actual induction through t required for personal appearance appeals, examination and other processing if his random sequence number has been reached.

Q—What about the registrant who loses a deferment or exempton just before age 26?

A—This is like the case in the previous question. If his number has been or is reached, and he loses a deferment or exemption his 26th birthday, he will, if his deferment extended his liability to at the end of all the processing steps - if he remains in Class I-A or I-A-O and is qualified, even though he has turned 26 during this period of time.

Q—How does this system help a registrant know with more certainty his chances of serving?

A—First of all, his period of greatest vulnerability is one year, rather than seven. Second, the order in which his birthday is drawn will tell him where he stands in the national random selection sequence. If his birthday is drawn early he knows that when he is classified I-A and found acceptable, he is almost certain to be called. He can plan his career to accomodate that possibility. If his birthday is drawn near the end, he has relative certainty he ma not be called short of unusual circumstances. He can plan accordingly. For the registrant whose birthday is drawn in the middle range it is not so clear, but in any event the system will give much greater certainty than is possible under the former system.

Q—Will registrants now postponed be in the random selection?

BA—No. The postponed registrant has already been ordered for induction under the old system and will be inducted when the postponement ends.

Q—Can a man whose birthday is drawn early in the drawing still join the Reserve?

A—Yes. Just as now, he can join a Reserve Unit any time before the induction order is issued.

Q—What about volunteering for active duty?

A—The policy is to authorize enlistment for active duty at any time up to the day of induction.

Q—What is the situation of a registrant who is in I-A for the first part of the year, but enters college in September and requests and gets a student deferment?

A—If his random sequence number has not been reached, he goes out of the group to return when no longer deferred to the current group. If his random sequence number has been reached, but he has not been issued an order to report for induction, the local board may defer him for college and he would then forfeit the selection group in the year he again lost his deferment.

The Texas Highway Department maintains just over 80 thousand miles of rural highways and city roads. Counties combined maintain almost 137 thousand miles of rural roads.

Veterans have proved to be good credit risks with only 3.3 percent of the home loans guaranteed by VA resulting in foreclosure. Their direct loan record is even better.

Appeal Period For 1970 Cotton Yields Extended

The appeal period for 1970 Cotton Yields is being extended through Friday, January 9, 1970. This should give interested producers ample time to gather production data.

Also, the appeal procedure is amended to provide that within the appeal period (1966-67-68) if the allotment was leased or released one or more years then the 1970 established yield will be used for such year and or years to compute the blended proven yield, and too, expiring-CR (Soil-bank) farms which have actual production for one or two of the applicable three years now are eligible for appeal.

For years in which cotton was planted and harvested within the three-year period it will be necessary that the ginner certfication show bale number, gross bale weight, and farm identification. Producers interested in more than one farm should furnish production data for all farms in which they had an interest in the base years.

Sales receipts, price support loan records, or copies of warehouse receipts are also acceptable.

All appeals must be filed by January 9, 1970 in order to be considered. For further details producers should contact the County ASCS Office.

State Is Seeking Applicants For DPS Patrolmen

The Texas Department of Public Safety is looking for patrolmen, Rep. Dan Kubiak noted in his weekly newsletter, and interested men may contact the DPA in Austin or Kubiak's office.

Requirements for patrolmen are: must be between 20 and 35 years old, high school graduate or equivalent, good moral character, excellent physical condition, at least 68 but not more than 76 inches tall, weigh not less than two pounds nor more than three and one-half pounds per inch of height, eyesight not worse than 20-40 correctible to 20-20, and a citizen of the United States.

Continuing his review of legislation enacted by the 61st Legislature, Kubiak listed:

HB 643, allowing fire marshals and health offcers in Texas to be issued search warrants if necessary to enter dwellings without consent.

HB 769, allowing uncontested divorce cases to be heard in any county of a multi-county judicial district in which the suit is filed.

HB 1015, authorizes the Public Welfare Department to extend ts program whenever necessary to include the entire range of welfare assistance, and amends the statutes requiring one-year residence for eligibility for public assistance.

HB 1452, provides that in the case of parental absence, the grandparent, adult brother or sister, aunt or uncle, or legal guardian of a minor child may give their written consent necessary for medical care.

Traffic in the "Big Four" urban areas — Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth — climbed by 7.1 percent in 1968, according to a study by Texas Highway Department.

Monarch butterflies are one of the few insects with migratory patterns like birds.

Guilty Plea Nets Seven Years For San Antonio Man

In District Court on Friday, December 19, Charles Campbell Jr. of San Antonio pleaded guilty to the offense of robbery, according to County Atty. John B Henderson Jr.

Campbell was charged with forcibly taking a 1969 car from Delmer Glaser of Cameron on July 22. Campbell was arrested in Rockdale and the car was returned to Glaser. Campbell received a seven-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville.

Campbell was also under indictment for felony theft in this county. He was accused of stealing a bridal ring set from Kopecky's Jewelers on June 28.

At the request of Campbell he wah given a polygraph examination in Waco and the results of the test cleared him, showing that he had no knowledge of the theft of the ring set. For this reason the indictment against him was dismissed on the motion of the County Attorney.

Dry Winters Shock People With Static

Dry winter days can shock innocent victims.

Static electricity often jars the unwary who walk across a carpeted floor and then touch a metal desk, door knob, or filing cabinet, the National Geographic Socety says.

Some people store more static electricty than others. The family of a highly charged Briton hugs him after the working day only if he remembers to knock on metal before coming home.

"I always touch the metal filing cabinet at the office," he says. "There's a flash and then I'm down to normal."

Substantial charges sometimes occur when clothing of certain materials is suddenly separated. Military personnel have been cautioned on the danger, especially when handling explosive duels.

Unlike current electricity which flows through a wire, the static variety spreads over the surface of all objects.

Both contain electrically charged particles of the atom, known as electrons. The particles are so small that thirty thousand trillion trillion weigh less than an ounce. Six million trillion must pass through the filament of a 100 - watt bulb to keep it burning one second.

In the home and office, friction between shoes and rugs sometimes builds up an excess number of the negatively charged electrons in the shoes and hence the body. The extra electrons jump to grounded objects—a filing cabinet or a less-charged person—creating a spark.

High summer humidity reduces static electricity. By absorbing moisture, the air and many materials become more conductive, allowing static charges to leak off.

Alcoa's President Says . . .

Industry Expects Growth

PITTSBURGH, Pa., John D. Harper, president of Aluminum Company of America, said today that aluminum's historic long-run growth rate of twice the real gross national product will continue in the United States through the 70's, and that there is every reason to expect even more vigorous growth abroad as per capita consumption rises.

"Change will continue, and I fully expect the aluminum industry of 1970 to be even more unlike the industry of today than today's industry is different from the industry of 1959," Alcoa's chief executive officer commented in a year-end statement.

Conceding that no one can predict these coming changes precisely, except to be sure that they will be vast and significant, Harper added:

"Some will be forced upon the industry. Some the industry itself will bring about. Certainly these changes will include the areas of price and capacity. Operating levels and our attitudes toward them will be different — as will how we approach the marketplace, which is really the other side of the coin.

"We have seen some change in such areas, but nothing like what I expect as we move into the 70s."

Beyond great worldwide growth, Harper said the internationalization of aluminum will intensify in the decade ahead. He added:

TRULY INTERNATIONAL

"I think that aluminum today is more truly international than any other basic material, , ,and I am sure it will be tomorrow. This has major implications for aluminum users, who can expect to benefit from advances in technology and production economy regardless of where these arise.

"Producers can expect to be challenged wherever they operate, and will seek to serve emerging markets through still broader expansion outside the borders of their home country."

Alcoa's president said further that he expects competition to increase, that more suppliers of aluminum will operate and market more efficiently, and that industries threatened by aluminum can be expected to respond aggressively.

"Perhaps most significantly, Harper said, "there will be an even greater need for substantial capital investments to keep the industry efficient and to expand to meet growing demand."

However, he also predicted the aluminum industry will meet and overcome the challenges of the 70s in a variety of ways, and will achieve a new maturity in the process.

He said he s confident the industry will find a way to lessen the impact of obstacles to world trade, to expand its all-important base of research and development by achieving industry - wide support of such programs, and to increase the general effectiveness of its market development efforts.

Most importantly, it must and can improve its profitability so that it can attract needed investment capital, he asserted.

STATISTICS

Commenting on industry statistics of immediate interest, Harper noted that shipments this year of approximately 5,300,000 tons represent a six percent gain over 1968. Exports increased about 20 percent, and imports declined around 16.5 percent. Next year, due to the general slowdown in the economy.
